

Faculty Institute

Monday, August 14, 2017

Please plan to attend this faculty development event, which is open to all levels of faculty, staff, and administrators. We've had a great response from presenters and there are many interesting topics to choose from, so take a look at the preliminary schedule below. The day starts with a keynote speaker. Additional details about each of the 30 minute sessions will be provided at registration.

Your registration includes a book from our keynote speaker and lunch. Register by August 7 via email to Veronica Hunt at vhunt@govst.edu to reserve your spot!

Keynote Speaker:

Curt Bonk is Professor at Indiana University teaching psychology and technology courses. Drawing on his background as a corporate controller, CPA, educational psychologist, and instructional technologist, Bonk offers unique insights into the intersection of business, education, psychology, and technology in his popular blog, TravelinEdMan. In addition to many national and statewide innovative distance teaching awards, in 2014, he received the Mildred B. and Charles A. Wedemeyer Award for Outstanding Practitioner in Distance Education. In 2016, he received the AACE Fellowship Award from the Association for the Advancement of Computing in Education for his leadership and service to the field. From 2012 to 2017, Bonk has been annually named by Education Next and listed in Education Week among the top contributors to the public debate about education from more than 20,000 university-based academics. He has authored several widely used technology books, including The World Is Open, Empowering Online Learning, The Handbook of Blended Learning, Electronic Collaborators, and Adding Some TEC-VARIETY.
